

Jane is a good friend, and you hang out all the time. She's a kind and considerate person, and places high value on others' time. As a result, Jane is almost always early for meetings. Jane is great to work with on group projects because she always puts in tons of effort. This semester, Jane has an internship with a local business! Jane is excited about this position and hopes it will lead to job offers after graduation.

Jane is an acquaintance. You've taken a few classes together, and she seems friendly. It's currently 4 weeks into the school year, and you haven't noticed whether Jane has come to class over the first few weeks